Journal of the International AIDS Society*, an official journal of the Society, provides an open access forum for essential and innovative HIV/AIDS research. Submission of research carried out by investigators in low- and middle-income countries is strongly encouraged.

The emerging field of operations research can provide valuable information on various algorithms for monitoring and providing support for comprehensive yet affordable and sustainable treatment, prevention and care programmes for different contexts. Journal of the International AIDS Society will give higher priority to publications in this area of research.

Topical areas include, but are not limited to: biology and pathogenesis; clinical research, treatment and care; epidemiology and prevention research; social and political sciences and policy; operations research and health economics; editorials, commentaries and discussion highlights from International AIDS conferences and other relevant conferences.

The journal considers the following article types: research articles, reviews, case reports, case studies, commentaries, debate articles, meeting reports and methodology articles. For further details, see www.jiasociety.org/info/about/.

Reasons for publishing in Journal of the International AIDS Society:

- All articles published in the journal are open access; universally accessible online without charge.
- High visibility for your work - anyone with Internet access can read your article, free of charge.
- Included in PubMed - making your work easy to find, read and cite.
- Articles are published immediately upon acceptance.
- Authors retain the copyright of their articles.
- Electronic submission and peer-review makes the whole process of publishing your article simple and efficient.
- Publishing online means unlimited space for figures, extensive datasets and video footage.
- Professional formatting meets the standards expected by researchers.
